John Graves

(1703-1804)

and <sup>v</sup>

His Descendants

by Roy Stockwell

KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI
1954

This book is about certain people. It is about a German immigrant and his children, his grandchildren, his great grandchildren and so on down to this good day. It has nothing to do with other people who were also called Graves who may have shipped over from England in the 17th century, settled in New England, spread westward into New York and Ohio and got a book (two volumes) written about themselves by a lawyer in Buffalo years ago.

Sometime prior to 1930 I began collecting data on the Graves family - my mother's family. My task was two-fold: (1) to ascertain who was the original member of the family in this country, and (2) to trace as many as possible of his descendants to the present day.

Over a period of twenty years or more I contacted many people but from no source (including genealogical material on file in various libraries) was I able to go back of my great great grandfather John Graves (11) who lived from 1772 to 1850. The origin of the family in America remained obscure. Joe Wilson (11368) had told me many years ago that the story was that one Honnas Graves who was born in Holland "East of the Rhine" or perhaps in Germany, of Protestant ancestry, took refuge in England because of religious persecution, settling in Devonshire where he worked in a foundry. He married an English woman and shortly afterward joined a group of colonists and went to Boston, Mass., just prior to the passage of the Stamp Act (1765). He took a homestead under colonial laws and when the Revolutionary war began he joined Washington's forces and remained with him throughout the war. He was slightly wounded several times. At the close of the war he sold his property near Boston and went to the Carolinas and from there to Eastern Tennessee where he died at the age of 103. He was said to have been the father of seventeen children, one of whom, Peter, was killed by the Indians in 1803.

In an effort to verify this romantic story I searched various old Massachusetts records (the Massachusetts records in Colonial times were excellent), lists of Revolutionary war soldiers, histories of Massachusetts towns, etc., etc., all to no avail. I am now convinced that this legend is without any basis in fact, though it may contain some elements of truth: Old John, our ancestor, probably died at the age of 103 and he was born no doubt "East of the Rhine;" and his son Peter was killed by Indians in 1794.

Another story, for which I am indebted to Effie Graves (1101a) is to the effect that three brothers named Graves came to America from England; one settled in New England, one went South to Tennessee and the third moved West to Iowa. Their father - so the story goes - was a member of the English nobility. Suffice it to say that I have discovered no historical basis for this fanciful tale.

In 1950, through Miss Pollyanna Creekmore, Secretary of the East Tennessee Historical Society at Knoxville, I came into possession of a genealogy of the Graves family prepared in 1870 by William Carroll Graves (281). Here in a manuscript written almost a century ago was authentic information which at once extended the range of our knowledge of the family by two generations back to a German immigrant, Old John "of Stinking Quarter." W. C. Graves's record of my great great grandfather John Graves (11) and his children checked exactly with the information I had already, and his information on Old John and his descendants to the fourth generation, when compared with information from other sources, has proven surprisingly accurate. Except for this old manuscript that the indefatigable secretary of the East Tennessee Historical Society had rescued from an obscure attic, this genealogy could never have been written.

The W. C. Graves manuscript provided the framework for this family history. Unfortunately Mr. Graves was concerned almost entirely with names only. It has remained for others to clothe this framework with detailed information as to dates of birth, marriage and death, occupations, etc. Our ancestors are not mere names on tombstones. In this quest for detailed information I have had the cooperation of many individuals, some of whom have told me about themselves and their immediate families, while others have shared information covering entire branches of the family tree.

William H. Thomas (331113) has shared with me his intimate knowledge of Union county and Eastern Tennessee, to which several of the Graves clan migrated from North Carolina late in the 18th century, and his rare appreciation of history as it is related to our family back to the German Palatinate. He is one of those rare individuals who can translate the history of the dead past into the living present.

I am indebted to Genevieve E. Peters (332933), the author of a book on the Sharp, Gibbs, Graves and other related families, for records showing that Old John lived in Berks county, Pennsylvania before 1750 and especially for information on Barbara Graves (3) and Henry Sharp and their descendants. I have also received much help from Crit Sharp (333f2) on many of the Sharps, and from Moretta Kuhnert (1122163) who has collected data on many members of the Graves and Moser families. Nora L. Collins (26271), the author of a History of the Collins Family, has permitted me to use information contained in her book, which she has supplemented with later information.

It will be noted that some family lines have been almost completely developed, while in other cases no information has been available after the fourth or fifth generation. In some instances no living members of the family have been found. In others I have been unable to secure the assistance of those who have the desired information. The problem has been largely one of finding people who knew something about their families back at least two generations or who had Bible records and who were willing to contribute their information for this history. To the hundreds who have rendered this invaluable service my heartfelt thanks.

It is obvious, of course, that the amount of space devoted to an individual is determined more by the information available than by the prominence or importance of the individual in the family group. While I have tried to record something of interest about each individual - his occupation, where he lived, his interests as indicated by membership in a church or other organization, etc., and his record of military service, if any, I have omitted reference to facts which may bring pain to those who come after. It is idle to assume that every member of the Graves family is or is a saint. But to record for future generations errors or misfortunes will serve no good purpose. There is no place in this genealogy for family skeletons. It is hardly necessary to add that in no case has the record been influenced by the fact that the individual concerned had agreed to purchase a copy of this book.

HOW TO USE THIS BOOK

In any genealogy, relationship is of the essence. In this book relationships are indicated by numbers. The children of Old John are numbered 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5. The children of No. 1 are numbered 11, 12, 13, 14, etc.; the children of No. 2 are numbered 21, 22, 23, 24, etc.; the children of No. 11 are numbered 111, 112, 113, 114, etc. This scheme is followed throughout. However, in families of ten or more children, the 10th child is indicated by adding 0 (not 10) to the parent number, the 11th child by adding an a, the 12th child by a b, etc. Thus the 11 children of Anthony Graves (113) are numbered 1131, 1132, 1133, 1134, 1135, 1136, 1137, 1138, 1139, 1130, 113a, 113b, 113c, 113d and 113e. It will be noted that the generation is indicated by the number of digits in the key number: e. g., 1133 indicates a person of the fourth generation; 2627111 indicates a person of the seventh generation, and so on.

The last digit of the number should indicate the place of the individual in the family group: thus, 1137 is the seventh child of #113. This rule is not always applicable because in some cases we do not know the order in which the children were born. We have birth dates for only two of Old John's children: Jacob (1) and Boston (2). The other children have been assigned numbers 3, 4, and 5 arbitrarily, though it is possible that some of them were older than Jacob.

It is suggested that the index be consulted for the number of the person in whom you are especially interested. Let us assume that the number is found to be 1101d21. In order to trace this person's genealogy, we begin with Old John, followed by succeeding generations in order: 1, 11, 110, 1101, 1101d, 1101d2, 1101d21. Or, we may start with 1101d21 and work backwards: 1101d21, 1101d2, 1101d, 1101, 110, 11, 1, to Old John.

Where numbers appear after the name, it indicates that the person mentioned is listed elsewhere under this number. Thus, Elias Raymer Graves (11036) married Maggie Sharp (34381). Referring to 34381 we find that Maggie was the daughter of Fletcher Sharp, etc.

ABBREVIATIONS: While it is impossible to indicate the source of all information in this book, it has seemed desirable to show the authority for some statements and to this end certain initials are entered in the text.

WCG refers to the manuscript prepared in 1870 by William Carroll Graves.

The Index of Names enables one to locate any person immediately. Not only does the proper name of each individual appear but nicknames and middle names commonly used as given names are also indexed. The maiden names of married women are also indexed. The Index of Names is complete except for a few very young children.

There is also a Geographical Index which makes it possible to identify members of the family who live in any given city or town. This index, while extensive, is not necessarily complete.

JOHN GRAVES AND HIS DESCENDANTS

JOHN GRAVES, from whom everyone in this genealogy is descended, is believed to have been born about 1703 in the German Palatinate. W. C. Graves, a great grandson of John, in a genealogical outline written in 1870, says that John died in 1804 at the age of 101. He is known to have been of German race and language and the belief that he came to America from the German Palatinate is based not only on tradition, but on a number of known facts; among them, the fact that many "Palatines" migrated to Pennsylvania in the period 1720-50 and the German settlement in Berks county, Penna., in which John lived about 1740-50 consisted of Palatines.

The name of the family originally was not Graves but Graff. When John's sons Jacob and Boston (Sebastian) were born in 1746 and 1747, the name of the parents was recorded as "John Graff and wife." The name was changed to Graves probably after the family moved to North Carolina, though John's son Jacob in 1820 signed his name to his will as "JACOB GRAFF." In the minutes of the District Court of Salisbury, N. C., for March, 1763, appears this entry: "This day came into Court the following persons who proved certificates of their receiving the sacrament of the Lord's Supper.....and was naturalized according to law.... to wit: JOHN GRAVES, Peter Noe, Anthony Cobble.....(GEP)"

That Jacob Graves (#1) whom we find in North Carolina at the time of the Revolution was born John Jacob Graff, March 8, 1746, in Berks county, Penna., the child of John Graff "and wife" is proved by records including the inscription on his tombstone. That Boston Graves (#2) was born Sebastian Graff, Oct. 1, 1747, in Berks county, Penna., the child of John Graff "and wife" is proved by Boston's pension application, filed in 1832. It follows that John Graff of Berks county, Penna., and John Graves of Orange county, N. C., were one and the same person.

While there are no records to prove that John Graff was born in the German Palatinate, the known facts point to that conclusion and there is no evidence to the contrary. The date of his arrival in America is uncertain. The writer has carefully examined the lists of arrivals at the Port of Philadelphia between 1727 and 1745 (published in Strassburger's Pennsylvania German Pioneers). The following record (Pennsylvania Colonial Records, Vol. III, p. 386) is of interest:

"At the courthouse in Philadelphia, Sept. 5, 1730, a list was presented of the names of forty-six Palatines who with their families making in all about 130 persons, were imported here in the ship Alexander & Ann, William Clymer, master, from Rotterdam, but last from Deal. In this list of forty-six "Palatines" appears the name of JOHANN SEBASTIAN GRAFF. It is very possible and I think probable that this is the man whose name is recorded as John Graff, the father of Jacob and Sebastian Graff, born in Berks county, Penna., in 1746 and 1747. This may explain the origin of the name Boston, the Anglicised form of the name Sebastian, which "Old John" gave to one of his children, and which has been passed on to members of succeeding generations.

The following oath was signed by Johann Sebastian Graff and others on the above list: "We do swear or solemnly declare that we deny all obedience to the Pope of Rome; and further swear or solemnly declare that no prince or person whatsoever hath any right or title to the Crown of Great Britain but his Majesty George II and his lawful issue."

"In what is now Alamance County but until 1848 Orange County, N. C., was a settlement of Pennsylvania Dutch and the prevailing sect was the German Reformed Church, and services continued in German until about 1800. On Stinking Quarter Creek, not far from the present Burlington, was the Graves Church about where 'Old John of Stinking Quarter' lived." (WHT) In the 1750s many "Pennsylvania Dutch" migrated to western North Carolina. Old John moved there prior to 1757, and settled on Stinking Quarter Creek, a branch of the Alamance.

His name does not appear on the tax list for

Orange county prior to 1757. In that year he purchased 640 acres of land from Hugh Dobbins. In 1762 he purchased 190 acres; in 1764 he bought 459 acres, and in 1765 457 acres. "Judging from the Orange county records, John Graves was rather a large landowner, and one of the earliest settlers in the county." (GEP)

The name of John's wife is unknown. The list of arrivals mentioned above contains nothing to indicate whether he was married or had children prior to his arrival in America.

"Many of the early North Carolina histories of the German settlement on the Alamance refer to John Graves as 'Old John of Stinking Quarter.' It is therefore likely that he was not a young man when he settled in North Carolina." (GEP)

In North Carolina prior to the Revolution there was a constant struggle between the people and the representatives of the Crown over questions of Government, of commerce, of finance and of religion. "In the 'back country' extortionate fees, excessive taxes, and the oppressive manner of collecting them brought about a popular uprising, known as the Regulation. Violence followed the refusal to pay taxes and in 1768 the Royal Governor was forced to lead a military expedition against the Regulators. New outbreaks followed and on March 16, 1771, with a force of about 1,000 men and officers, the Governor met twice that number of Regulators on the banks of the Alamance, where, after two hours of fighting, with losses on each side nearly equal, the ammunition of the Regulators was exhausted and they were routed. About fifteen were taken prisoners, and of these seven were executed." (Encyclopaedia Britannica, 14th Ed.)

The name of John Graves appears on a list of Regulators of the Alamance in 1768. Whether he participated in the battle of March 16, 1771, is not known. After the battle all members of the Regulation were compelled to take an oath of loyalty to the Crown.

W. C. Graves says that John came from North Carolina to East Tennessee when he was quite old. "Some of his children had preceded him and settled in Big Valley on the north and south side of the Clinch River, now Union county." Records in Orange county, N. C., show that John deeded property in Orange county to his son Jacob, Nov. 22, 1799, so that it is probable that he moved to Tennessee about 1800. (GEP)

Old John lived in Tennessee with his grandson John (11). He and his grandson both died on the latter's farm, and Old John was buried near the old Presbyterian church in Big Valley. (WCG)

It is believed that Old John had a large family; one historian said he had 17 children. (GEP) We have the names of only five: Jacob, Boston, Barbara, Peter and John. (WCG) Since we have birth dates only for Jacob and Boston, we do not know whether they were born in the order in which they are here listed.

1 JACOB GRAVES was born March 8, 1746, in Greenwich township, Berks county, Pa. His name appears in the Dunkel Church Birth and Baptism Records, Greenwich township, Berks county, Penna., as JOHN JACOB GRAFF. (GEP) He married TURLEY COBLE, daughter of Anthony Coble. (WCG) He appears to have served for a time in the British Army during the Revolutionary war. This may be explained by the fact that the Royal Governor (Tryon) forced those whom he defeated at the battle of the Alamance in 1771 to sign an oath of allegiance to the Crown, and many of these men were loyalists through religious conviction when the Revolution broke out. (WHT) In this connection it is to be noted that Jacob's brother Boston served in the Continental army.

The following letter from Jesse Benton (father of the great Missouri Senator) to Colonel Thomas Hart, dated Mar. 23, 1783, is published in Theodore Roosevelt's The Winning of the West (New Library Edition, vol. II, part I, page 203): "I cannot help mentioning to You an Evil which seems intailed upon the upper part of this state, to wit, Mobbs and commotions amongst the People. I shall give you the particulars of the last Work of this kind which lately happened, & which is not yet settled; Plunder being the first cause. The Scoundrels, under the cloak of the great Whigs cannot bear the thought of paying the unfortunate wretches whom Fame and ill will call Tories (though many of them perhaps honest, industrious and useful men) for plundered property; but on the other hand think they together with their Wives and Children (who are now begging for Mercy) ought to be punished to the utmost extremity. I am sorry that Col O Neal and his brother Pete, who have been useful men and whom I am in hopes are pretty clear of plundering, should have a hand in Arbitrary measures at this Day when the Civil Laws might take place.

"One Jacob Graves, son of John of Old Stinking Quarter, went off and was taken with the British Army, escaped from the Guards, came & surrendered himself to Gen'l Butler, about the middle of last month & went to his family upon Parole. Col O Neal being informed of this, armed himself with gun and sword, went to Graves's in a passion, Graves shut the Door, O Neal broke it down, Graves I believe thinking his own life at stake, took his Brothers gun which happened to be in the house and shot O Neal through the Breast.

"O Neal has suffered much but is now recovering. This accident has inflamed and set to work those who were afraid of suffering for their unjust and unwarrantable Deeds, the Ignorant honest men are also willing to take part against their Rulers & I don't know when nor where it is to end, but I wish it was over. At the Guilford Feb'y Court Peter O Neal & others armed with clubs in the Face of the Court then sitting and in the Court house too, beat some men called Tories so much that their lives were despaired of, broke up the Court and finally have stopd the civil laws in that County. Your old friend Col Dunn got out at Window, fled in a Fright, took cold and died immediately. Rowan county Court I was told was also broke up.

"If O Neal should die I fear that a number of unhappy wretches called Tories will be Murdered, and that a man disposed to do justice dare not interfere, indeed the times seem to imitate the commencement of the Regulators."

Evidently Jacob was in real trouble, because he had shot the Colonel, or because he was under suspicion of being a Loyalist which to some people in those turbulent times was the same as being a traitor. In the North Carolina State Records, vol. 19, page 260, we read: "The house met according to adjournment. Received from his Excellency the Governor the following message: To the Honorable, the General Assembly, Gentlemen: I herewith send you sundry petitions in favor of Jacob Graves who is now under sentence of death in Hillsborough Gaol for high treason, who is to be executed the 15th day of May. I request the sense of the Honorable the General Assembly as to the fate of this person. Alexander Martin.

"Resolved, it is the opinion of this House that Jacob Graves, now under sentence of death in the Gaol of Hillsborough, is a proper subject for the mercy of Government to be exercised upon and that it would be advisable for his Excellency the Governor to grant him a pardon for the particular offense of which he is convicted.

"Received from the Senate the resolve of this House for extending mercy to Jacob Graves, now under sentence of death in Hillsborough Gaol. Endorsed in Senate 24 April 1784, read and concurred with."

Jacob's name appears on the 1780-1 Orange County tax list assessed on 312 acres of land. (GEP) His will is recorded in the Archives, Raleigh, N. C., as follows:

"WILL OF JACOB GRAVES, dated April 9, 1820...wife TURLEY shall enjoy full possession of my house with my daughter BETSEY to live also with her mother as long as she lives single and also my wife to have my negro girl Rainey as long as she lives, also 2 horses and gears.....give and bequeath to MARY GLASS $50 which she has instead of a horse; also give unto CATHERINE GLASS the like sum of $50 instead of a horse which she received. I give unto NELLY NEACE $50 instead of a horse she having received $11. I give unto BARBARA GRAVES $50; I give and bequeath to BETSEY and SARAH GRAVES $150 each; to son DANIEL GRAVES tract of land whereon he now lives not to cross Stinking Creek above the mill at the fork or junction of the two creeks or to interfere or have any part of the mill tract. Also give to said DANIEL part of my 206 acres tract all on the south side following the creek. Said DANIEL GRAVES is to pay to my estate or executors the sum of $500, paying $100 within a year after my death and the balance within 2 years thereafter clear of interest which shall be his part of my estate. My son ELIAS GRAVES the balance of 206 acre tract.....pay my estate $500, $100 within year of my death and the balance within 2 years which shall be his part of my estate; son DAVID my old tract and the same he lives on and that part of 206 acre tract which lies in the fork of the two creeks heretofore reserved for my said son DAVID to pay $500 to estate, $100 within 2 years and balance 2 years thereafter as his share.....I wish my wife to enjoy my mill and the land contained in the mill tract and I wish for the mill to be kept in repair out of my estate, my sons, DANIEL, ELI and DAVID aiding in getting the timbers.....furnishing the same off their tract of land. It is my wish after the death of my wife for my mill, together with the land attached to it, to be sold among my children to the highest bidder also for the negro girl and her increase to be sold among my children after my wife's death. It is my wish and desire that property or part of my estate which may be left after the death of my wife to be equally divided among my two sons BOSTION and JOHN GRAVES and all my daughters share and share alike my other 3 sons named having received their parts in their land.....Nominate George Isley, Bostion Graves and David Graves to act as executors to my last will.....(signed) JACOB GRAFF."

Jacob was a member of the Moravian (Reformed) Church. (DIO) He died in 1820 and is buried in the Stoner cemetery, Alamance county, N. C. The inscription on his gravestone (partially illegible) is as follows: "JACOB GRAVES DIED IN HIS LXXIVth TH L YEAR X AP. 1820." 11 children: JOHN, BOSTON, DANIEL, ELI, CATHERINE, MILLY (or NELLY), DAVID, BARBARA, ELIZABETH, SARAH, MARY.

He moved to Tennessee, probably between 1796 (the year Tennessee was admitted to the Union) and 1800. 113 ANTHONY GRAVES, born Feb. 4, 1800, near Sharps Chapel, Tenn. Married in 1821 to JUDIE BLEDSOE and after her death in 1828, he married MARTHA LOWER (born Jan. 5, 1813, daughter of Jacob and Sarah Cline Lower). About 1838 he planned to move from Tennessee to the Black Hawk country of Iowa, and in order to raise money for the journey he started a shipment of produce and whiskey down the Clinch river to Alabama but the boat sank. Thereupon he returned to his father's farm where he stayed two years and then proceeded overland to Buchanan county, Missouri. The route travelled in this journey of over 800 miles is not known. The wagons were drawn by oxen and the trip required several weeks. The party reached, Dekalb, Mo., in the fall of 1840.

William H. Sharp (11342) wrote that Anthony's father John gave him two negro slaves, a man and a woman, and Anthony sold them for $1100 in silver. He brought the silver with him to Missouri and with this money bought and improved the farm near Guilford on which he lived until his death.

Anthony's father-in-law Jacob Lower and at least several of his eight children had migrated from the vicinity of Knoxville, Tenn., in 1836 to Jackson county, Mo. In the fall of 1837 or early in 1838 they moved from Jackson county to Buchanan county, near Dekalb. No doubt the Lower family influenced Anthony to follow them to Buchanan county. It is to be remembered that Buchanan county was a part of the Platte Purchase. The original boundary of the state of Missouri was a line extending north and south through the mouth of the Kaw river, but in 1836, 15 years after Missouri's admission to the Union, the strip of territory between this Western boundary and the Missouri river was ceded by the Government to the state of Missouri and in the spring of 1837 the new territory was opened to settlement.

Anthony and Martha brought with them to Missouri nine of their ten children (5 children were born after the family came to Missouri). They were followed two years later by Anthony's brother Solomon (112) and his family. Anthony's second cousin Boston Graves (44) came from Claiborne county, Tenn., to Buchanan county in 1843, settling near Gower, southeast of St. Joseph. Whether Anthony and Boston knew each other is uncertain. They probably lived within twenty miles of each other in Tennessee and about the same distance later in Missouri, but twenty miles in those days was a long journey. I do not recall that my grandfather John, Anthony's fifth child, or his son Henry who lived at Dekalb, ever mentioned a Graves family at Gower and I doubt if they were personally acquainted.

The village of St. Joseph was platted in 1843 and three years later the town was made the county seat. Attention is invited to the letter of William H. Sharp, a grandson of Anthony, included in the sketch of Rebecca Graves (1134) which conveys some idea of the primitive life in the Dekalb neighborhood in the 1840s.

Anthony was a farmer and a distiller of whiskey. He had a distillery on Still House branch in Tennessee and after coming to Missouri, worked in distilleries near Dekalb and Rushville. He was extremely temperate in his use of liquor and when offered a drink, would often reply, "No, I've had a drink today."

He lived on a rented farm near Dekalb until 1850 when he moved to Nodaway county, Missouri, purchasing a small farm adjoining the town of Guilford, where he lived until his death, January 11, 1882. The Graves cemetery at Guilford, which he donated to the town, was a part of his land, though he never owned much property. Primitive Baptist. 15 children (4 by the first wife, 11 by the second).

The following, written by William H. Sharp (11342) is taken from Mrs. Peters' book on the Sharps and related families: "Father and mother were born in East Tennessee and moved with their parents to Missouri in the year 1830 (Rebecca came with her parents in 1840. RS) and they were married in 1840. The country was inhabited by Indians, who went in tribes and lived in wigwams. They were armed with bows and arrows. I have seen them pass our place, one after another, miles long; the squaws with their babies in baskets, some of them tied fast to their mothers' backs. The older ones were in large baskets and cinched to the pony's back. Sometimes they would be crying and kicking with all their might. I presume they were tired and hungry. They had a camp ground about one mile from our place (near Dekalb, Mo.) where they would stop for weeks and hunt and fish.

"When I was 4 years old (1850) my father moved from St. Joseph to a station called Guilford, situated near the Platte River, where he took a claim next to a spring that seemed to come up through the sand and was clear as crystal and always cold. It was half a mile from the Platte River. During the year 1854, my Uncle Levi Sharp, who was a cousin to my father and who married a sister of my mother, moved from Tazewell, Tenn., to Missouri, and he took a liking to father's place and the spring of water, and bought my father out, giving him $400 in gold coin, which he had brought from Tennessee. I remember my sister and I crying, and mother, too, about the sale of the place. We had just planted an orchard and 20 acres of prairie broke and fenced. We had a fine hewed log house and some improvements besides, but father gave possession and took another claim a mile east of the one he sold Uncle Levi. This, too, was near a spring, but not so good as the first one.

"The first thing he did was to build a house of round logs and chink and daub with clay the openings between the logs and build a fire place. Then he broke 20 acres of prairie with four yoke of oxen and fenced it, then he went to the land office at Plattsburg to file on it, and was informed that a man named Smock had bought several hundred acres of Government land for a dollar and 25¢ per acre, including father's claim, so we had another move to make.

"After a couple of years, father found another claim. He went to Plattsburg to file before doing any work on the claim. He hired a man to hew a set of logs to build a house and then dug a well. About this time the Civil War began. Father tried to be neutral but our community was divided and trouble began. A home militia was organized and an order issued for everyman to take an oath to defend the constitution of the United States, and so many refused to take the oath that military rule was established and real war broke out. Several men in our community were killed because they refused to take the oath. Volunteers were called for and men enlisted on both sides. Secessionists had to go South and some were killed while trying to go South. My father enlisted in the militia but stayed at home. I took his place and went on scouts, but we did more harm than good by living on the substance of the people in the country that was raided, so in the year 1863 I enlisted.

"The regiment remained near St. Joseph, Mo., until spring, and was ordered South. Had it not been for unprincipled men our part of the country would have been peaceable, but the nightriding rangers and the James boys and others raided the country and caused trouble to the close of the war. During the war, father sold his farm and moved to Maryville, then bought some unimproved land near White Cloud, where he lived the rest of his life.

"My grandfather Henry Sharp had the misfortune of getting his house burned and the old records of the family were destroyed, but memory and records were still kept among some of the children and grandchildren. Among the records destroyed it was found that some of the relatives were in the Indian Wars in North Carolina and Tennessee. One of my grand uncles by the name of George Sharp was killed and scalped not far from the Cumberland Gap, and a tomahawk left sticking in his breast. Then Uncle Nicholas Sharp, a brother of Uncle George, made a vow that he would kill and scalp every Indian in his power as long as the Indians made war with the whites and when he died in Missouri during the first settlement of the town of Platt Purchase, he had 40 scalps on a buckskin string. He was with Daniel Boone when Boone settled in Boone county, Missouri.

"I think it is proper to state here that the family has a war record. William Sharp, my great grandfather, was in the Revolutionary War; his sons and brothers in the War of 1812; Uncle George and Nicholas in the Indian Wars; Uncles Jake and John were in the Mexican War with the United States. My father and mother met them at the old Fort Leavenworth when they returned and Uncle Jake died from a gunshot wound in the year 1864 in a hospital somewhere in the South, near Island No. 10 on the Mississippi River."

1134a LILLIE CATHERINE SHARP, born March 27, 1869, at Maryville, Mo. Died March 27, 1874, and is buried in the Baptist cemetery, Maryville.

1135 JOHN GRAVES, born Nov. 27, 1829, at Maynardville, Tenn. Attended school three months. Moved with his parents to Buchanan county, Mo., in 1840, by ox team. He walked the entire distance except one day. Married Feb. 10, 1850, at Dekalb, Mo., to ELIZABETH LANDRUM (born in Indiana Dec. 15, 1833, died Jan. 26, 1900; she was a daughter of Edward and Percilla Barnes Landrum, a granddaughter of Joseph and Elizabeth Dixon Landrum, great granddaughter of Joel and Susan Bundrum Landrum, and a great great granddaughter of Fletcher Landrum of Halifax county, Virginia.

He farmed near Dekalb, Mo., until March, 1855, when he moved to 160 acres on Stranger creek, SE of Effingham, Kansas, which he had homesteaded in 1854, immediately after Kansas Territory was opened to settlement. When he moved to Kansas, his assets consisted of three yoke of oxen, one cow, some heifers and a few pigs; his liabilities, debts of $50. His first house, a log cabin, required a cash outlay of 50¢ which was spent for nails. He lived on this farm the remainder of his life. He was one of the original proprietors of the town site of Monrovia which he assisted in platting in 1856 - an early indication of his interest in public affairs. He was an elder in the Christian Church at Pleasant Grove, south of Effingham, from its organization in 1862 until the end of his life. He was a public school trustee for many years and a director of the Effingham State Bank. During the Civil War he served as a second lieutenant of Co. F, 12th Regiment, Kansas State Militia, being on active duty from Oct. 8, to 27, 1864, during the raid of the Confederates under General Sterling Price into the Kansas City area (the Battle of Westport occurred Oct. 20-23, 1864).

Pardee Butler, pioneer preacher in Kansas, in his "Personal Recollections," (1889) says: "Among the brethren that had been in Kansas from its first settlement were John and Jacob Graves, brothers from Tennessee, who have since grown rich in worldly goods, and richer still in good works." While it is hardly accurate to refer to John or Jacob as rich, they accumulated considerable property and were considered well-to-do farmers. John at one time owned 1,337 acres of Kansas land. He was a man of robust physique, unflagging energy, foresight and judgment, and frugal habits. He never engaged in sharp business practices and never tried to profit at the expense of others less fortunate than himself. As to tobacco and liquor he was a total abstainer. Throughout his life he was a generous contributor to various enterprises of the Christian Church in Kansas and in Tennessee, but without ostentation. He was motivated by an abiding sense of stewardship. He was a staunch Republican and strongly opposed to slavery, though just what part he took in the struggle to make Kansas a free state we do not know.

No small part of the credit for John's success in life was due to his wife Elizabeth. His marriage was a very fortunate one.

He died April 13, 1918, at the home of his son Henry at Dekalb, Mo., and was buried at Pleasant Grove church, south of Effingham, Kansas. (This church which was demolished about 1950, was situated one-half mile west of the Graves homestead.) Soon after his death, Z. S. Hastings, who had been a farmer-teacher-preacher in Atchison county for half a century, wrote a letter to the Effingham New Leaf which read in part as follows: "Judging by the fruit I think John Graves is in heaven; I think this because I believe in Jesus Christ. I have known brother John Graves for fifty years. I preached in 1887 the 25th anniversary of Pleasant Grove; John Graves was there. In 1912 I preached the 50th; brother Graves was there..... I wanted to say all and more too than the above because I loved John Graves, a man without guile."

118331 JOHN PASCAL (PAT) GRAVES. In 1951 he wrote: "My uncle Napoleon and my father William made a few unfinished wagons, looked like a lot of other homemade wagons. They worked about eight years, turned out probably 60 or 70 wagons; of course they didn't have but few tools and no machinery at all. They went out of business in 1911; this firm was called W. C. Graves & Brother, and later just Graves Brothers. I purchased the handfull of tools and lumber for a trifle in the year 1912, then adding tools and machinery all along and in about 3 years I had a very good shop, doing lots of work. In the third of a century of my shop work I turned out hundreds of wagons, also made lots of fishing boats. I painted all of my wagons with the best wagon paint, also striped and lettered neatly. I called my shop the Graves Wagon Shop, and later on just drifted into the name Graves Wagon Company. Of course through the mistake of the general public I have been called one of the Graves brothers lots of times by customers not ten miles away." Living at La Follette, Tennessee.

D, 1st Tennessee Infantry, CSA, and died at Camp Dick Robinson, Ky., Oct. 2, 1861. She states that he did not enlist in Tennessee "because the others would have killed him, so he left home and went to Iowa," and returned to Tennessee after the war where he died, date not stated. She says she once saw a pension check which John's widow received from the US Government many years later. The information shown above (12 thru LXX27) was secured in 1951 from Rev. D. I. Offman, minister of St. Paul's Church near Burlington, North Carolina. According to Mr. Offman, his church was located on the former site of the Graves Church, or meeting house. When I suggested to Mr. Offman that I was interested in dates, occupations, places of residence, etc., in addition to names, he replied that he was writing genealogy, not history. Efforts to secure further information from other sources have been unsuccessful.

Jacob Graves (1) was the father of eleven children, only two of whom - John and Boston - moved to Tennessee. It may be assumed that the others remained in North Carolina.

2 BOSTON GRAVES, born Oct. 1, 1747, in Berks county, Penna. Married in 1769 in Orange county, N. C., to SARAH EFLAND (EPHLAND or EPHLIN). Sarah's sister Mary married Nicholas Gibbs, another sister Phillis married John Sharp, and another sister Elizabeth married Welsh. Sarah was born in 1751 and died Dec. 28, 1842. Boston was a blacksmith. During the Revolutionary War he served as a private in Capt. William Rogers' company of Col. William O'Neil's regiment of Orange county, N. C. troops (DAR Lineage Book, vol. 100, page 38).. His name appears in a list of Revolutionary pensioners published in King's Mountain Men, 1924. His application for pension, filed Aug. 23, 1832, gives his age as 85, the name of his wife as Sarah; states that he was born in Pennsylvania Oct. 1, 1747, moved to Orange county, N. C., where he was drafted in 1779... In 1833 he was awarded a pension of $40 per annum.

Boston's name appears on the tax lists of Orange county, N. C., for 1779, 1780, 1781, 1782, and 1785, also in the Grantor Book of Orange county, Boston Graves to John Efland, Aug. 25, 1795. (GEP) This may have been about the time that he moved to Tennessee.

"Many residents of Orange county, N. C., were loyal to the Crown. After the Battle of Alamance May 16, 1771, these rebellious citizens were forced to take an oath of allegiance to the Crown, and, being a very religious people, they either evaded service in the Continental Army or fought for the King. At the outbreak of the Revolution, Boston Graves and his brother-in-law John Efland were operating a wagon shop on Stinking Quarter. A call came twice for Boston but for some reason, John Efland served in his stead. The third call found Efland too ill from exposure to respond, so Boston went into the service, and if tradition is correct, was at Yorktown and brought the silver spoon belonging to Lord Cornwallis, which spoon came down by Boston's request to each succeeding eldest son." (WHT) He died April 1, 1840, in Knox county, Tennessee. 9 children.

3 BARBARA GRAVES, married HENRY H. SHARP. Henry was a brother to John, Aaron and George Sharp and Mrs. Nicholas Countz (WCC). According to a "History of Preble County, Ohio," (1881) Henry Sharp was a native of Scotland but lived in Germany prior to coming to America. Sometime prior to 1785 he lived in Orange county, North Carolina, as is indicated by a record stating that on June 3, 1785 Henry and Barbara Sharp of Botetourt county, Virginia, deeded to one Michael Holt land situated in Orange county, N. C. Henry's name appears on tax lists for Orange county for 1779 on property valued at $1480 and in 1780-81-82 he was taxed on 225 acres of land in Orange county. As his name does not appear on the tax lists of Orange county after 1782 it is probable that he left Orange county about that time for Virginia. His name appears on tax lists of Botetourt county, Virginia for 1782-87. In the Brief of Deeds of Montgomery county, Va., Nov. 2, 1795, appears this entry: "Henry Sharp and his wife Barbara to George Williams, 112 acres on Sinking Creek." At this time Henry was a resident of Knox county, Tenn. Tax records seem to indicate that he left Virginia for Tennessee in 1789. He is believed to have moved from Tennessee to Preble county, Ohio, in 1805, where he died in 1814. 10 children.

"He was the first large scale merchant for the Big Valley area in the region of Lost Creek. He owned a large fertile farm. His son-in-law John Hitch was his 'trader,' i. e., managed his store. Jacob hauled his merchandise by wagon from Baltimore, Maryland. He was also a Methodist preacher and the first Methodist church and the first Masonic lodge met in his brick home." (TVA records) Jacob's farm at Sharps Chapel contained several hundred acres of land and on this farm he built a large two-storied brick house often referred to as the "mansion." It was built entirely by slave labor, with bricks made by hand from clay taken from a field in back of the house. Jacob and his large family lived in this house until sometime between 1850 and 1860, when due to financial reverses, he was forced to sell his property and move to Jefferson county, Tenn., where his first wife died. After his second marriage Jacob lived at Friends Station, near New Market, Tenn., on a farm which belonged to his second wife. Mary Jane was born in 1833 and was eleven years his senior. He was but a lad during the Civil war, being barely 19 when he was married, but he was a soldier in the Union Army. During his service he became ill, and unknown to the Army he went home and was hidden in a closet in one of the bedrooms until he recovered. In order to conceal the door to the closet, a large dresser was pushed against it, which was unnoticed when Union soldiers came in search of him. There he remained until he was nursed back to health. It was during the war that his wife went to visit relatives in Georgia and was unable to return home because the railroad tracks had been torn up. Until the tracks were repaired, she taught school, and it was during this sojourn in Georgia that her first child was born. In 1870 Harvey was a US Marshal for Jefferson county, Tenn.
